FORTIETH CONGRESS.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 29, 1868.

SENATE.

A memorial of citizens of Milledgeville, Ala., against the removal of the State capital, was referred.

Also, a petition of Mr. Mackey, President of the South Carolina Convention, that the Legislature be allowed to meet, such assemblage having been prevented by Gen. Canby until Congress approved the Constitution.

Also, a petition of members of the bar of Michigan, that the Eastern District be abolished and the whole State constituted one district. Referred.

Mr. SUMNER presented a petition of citizens of Boston asking assistance to the enlargement of St. Marys Canal, Referred.

Mr. SHERMAN, from the Finance Committee, reported an amendment to the National Currency bill. He had received a letter on the subject from the Controller of the Currency, which he would lay before the Senate and call up the bill at an early day.

Mr. CHANDLER called up the bill to regulate the coasting trade of the Northern, Northeastern and Northwestern frontier.

Mr. FESSENDEN intimated the bill had not received sufficient consideration from the Committee on Commerce, and ought to be referred back to them.

Mr. CHANDLER replied the bill had been carefully considered and was reported unanimously.

Mr. TRUMBULL urged the passage of the bill. If any objectional features appeared amendments could be offered.

At this point the bill to extend the charter of the City of Washington came over from the President, with the announcement it had become a law by the lapse of ten days since its receipt by him.

Mr. FESSENDEN, replying to Mr. Chandler, said he had been informed by members of the Committee that they had relied entirely on the opinion of the Chairman, upon which, standing alone, however well informed that Senator (Mr. Chandler) might be, the Senate could hardly predicate its action. He sent to the Clerk's desk the opinion of the Treasury Department on the subject.

The morning hour expiring, the unfinished business of yesterday came up, and the Arkansas bill was considered, the question being on Mr. Ferry's amendment striking out all fundamental conditions.

Mr. EDMUNDS made a long legal argument against the amendment, holding that Congress can impose conditions of admission.

Mr. CONKLING followed, controverting Mr. Edmunds' views.

On motion of Mr. BUCKALEW, the General of the army was requested to transmit to the Senate any reports or papers received by him since the 4th inst. relative to the late election in Arkansas.

At 4:25 the Senate went into Executive session, and subsequently adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. MORGAN offered a resolution instructing the Speaker to add members of the opposition party in the House to the Committee to investigate the facts in the case of Charles W. Woolley.

Mr. BUTLER objected, but the Speaker ruled it to be a question of privilege.

Mr. UPSON raised the question of its being considered at present, and the House, by yeas 53, nays 65, refused to consider the resolution.

Mr. BOYER offered a similar resolution, when the Speaker ruled it not a privileged question, being substantially the same as that the House refused to consider.

Mr. BINGHAM called up his motion to reconsider the vote by which Mr. Wooley was last evening ordered to be committed to close confinement. This was in execution of the understanding last night. Mr. Bingham at some length defended the action of the Committee.

An exciting discussion sprung up, during which Mr. BROOKS made a speech, covering a statement by Mr. Woolley as to the manner in which he had been treated by Mr. Butler in Committee, characterizing Mr. Butler's action as rude, abusive and insulting; stating that his answers when given were modified, altered and changed by Mr. Butler, the witness being denied any opportunity to explain, except on two or three occasions; that he was refused permission to see his own evidence and to consult with his counsel, and on his refusal to relate private business to the Committee, which had no reference to the trial of the President, or the articles of impeachment, or to the vote of any Senator. Coupled with the threat to be brought to the bar of the House, Gen. Butler remarked he would offer a resolution to place witness in close confinement until the 4th March, 1869, and witness was thereupon committed to custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms. Witness considers that he cannot divulge matters that come to him under the protection and sanction of the relation of client and counsel, and if he should make such disclosures under any circumstances, they can be made only when the demand is made by competent authority, which possesses power to punish him for a refusal to disclose, viz., the House itself, when the disclosure is not voluntary but coerced, and the witness is protected.

Mr. BROOKS, after some further remarks, said Mr. Butler's object in his misrepresentation of the acts of Mr. Wooley is apparent. He wanted to connect Mr. Woolley with the President, and thus prevent his answers to accomplish his purpose.

During Mr. Brooks' remarks Mr. BUTLER objected that the enclosure was an abusive, virulent and vituperative communication, which any gentleman should have been ashamed of.

Mr. BROOKS said he could not be taught gentility by the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. BUTLER stated the relations between the gentleman and himself were known and should have taught him courtesy.

The SPEAKER said—"It is presumed by parliamentary law that the relations between all members are cordial, and asked if the House would consent to the gentleman from New York proceeding in order."

Mr. BROOKS withdrew the offensive words, but the House, by yeas 50 nays 73, refused him permission to proceed.

Mr. ELDRIDGE insisted the witness, Woolley, had done nothing to bring him into contempt of the House. The refusal to answer what the witness considered an improper question was not contempt, unless the House directed him specifically to answer it.

Mr. MORGAN referred to the threats made by an Indiana member to Miss Vinnie Ream, the artiste, because she refused to influence Senator Ross to vote for impeachment.

Mr. JULIAN, the member alluded to, explained the conversation he had with Miss Ream, but denied having used any threats.

Finally Mr. BUTLER defended the action of the Managers, and alluding to the complaint that there were no members of the opposition party on the Committee, said it was impudent for Ali Babi, if he were before a Grand Jury, to require the rest of the forty thieves to be put on the Grand Jury.

The SPEAKER ruled this out of order, though Mr. Butler disclaimed any personal application of it.

On a vote by the House he was allowed to proceed.

The morning hour having expired, Mr. BINGHAM withdrew his motion to reconsider, so the resolution stands as adopted yesterday. The SPEAKER said Mr. Woolley's wife and counsel would be allowed to visit him.

Mr. O'NEIL, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill for the protection of Emigrants, which was specially assigned to follow the bill to promote commerce, which is special order for the second Tuesday in June.

The House refused to agree to a motion by Mr. CARY to adjourn into Committee on the Indian Appropriation.

A discussion arising in reference to the treaty now pending in the Senate for the sale of 800,000 acres of Cherokee lands in Kansas at one dollar per acre, Messrs. Butler, Lawrence, (O.) and others, denounced it as a swindle. Mr. Butler stated an offer had been made to pay $4,900,000 for the property in ninety days.

Without disposing of the bill the House adjourned.

GRANT AND COLFAX.

Formal Notification of their Nomination--Speeches by Gen. Hawley, Gen. Grant and Mr. Colfax--The Candidates will Write Letters formally Accepting their Nominations.

[By telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1868.

The Committee appointed by the National Union Republican Convention, under instructions from that body to present to Gen. Grant and Schuyler Colfax a record of its proceedings, and to inform them of their nomination, performed that duty this evening between eight and nine o'clock at the residence of Gen. Grant. About two hundred persons wore present, including delegates to the Convention, several members of Congress, General Grant's staff and ladies of the families of Grant and Colfax. These two gentlemen stood side by side, and the spectators formed in a semi-circle in front of them, thus affording a full view of the proceeding.

Gen. Hawley, President of the Convention, delivered the following address:

Gentlemen—The National Union Republican party, assembled in National Convention on the 20th of this month, appointed us, the officers of the Convention, to wait upon you. In obedience to its instructions we give you a copy of the record of its proceedings. You will perceive that it was governed by the most patriotic motives, harmonious, enthusiastic and determined. We mean, in your own words, to save in peace what we won in war. We mean to make it a solemn practical reality in the United States that all men are created equal, endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We intend that there shall never be cause or opportunity for a civil war in this nation, originated either by those who would enslave their fellow men or those who must fight to regain their freedom. We believe there can be no permanent peace save in justice and equal rights, the equality of all men before the law. We hope to see our government reaching to the remotest corner and to the humblest person, securing to him by impartial and irresistable power his personal safety, the right to the avails of his labor, and the right and the opportunity for physical, mental and moral advancement. The best guarantee for the continuance of snch a government is to give to all classes impartially a share in its management. We hear much of forgiveness and fraternity. We do most earnestly desire a speedy return of the policy and measures of peaceful time. None long more for a fully restored Union than those who sustained their Government during the late dreadful war; but the dead men have left a trust in our hands. We long for peace and good will; but we have no friends who oppress their fellow-men. We do not idly and hopelessly ask for indemnity for the past. We seek for security for the future. You will see that the Convention believes that integrity, simplicity and economy in governmental affairs are the duties of good citizens and honorable men. It makes the strict fulfillment of national obligation a point of honor, never to be waived. While the civilized world recognizes full and final payment as the only payment, the Union Republican party will ever consent to tender. The equal rights of adopted citizens are clearly asserted, and all people who love our government are hospitably invited to come and enjoy its benefits, and contribute to its strength. The Convention spoke in nothing more warmly than in profferring a hearty welcome to all those who, lately in arms were against the United States, are now so frankly, and honestly operating in restoring peace and establishing truly free Government. During the last three years countless indications of the people's choice for next President have been converging upon yourself. Having made its statement of principles and purposes, the Convention deliberately and formally, State by State, territory by territory, recorded the will of its constituents and unanimously nominated you for President of the United States, following the work by tumultuous and long continued manifestations of joy, pride and confidence. We know you will be faithful to the Constitution and the laws, and to the support of the principles that you are called to represent. We know that you will not seek to enforce upon the unwilling representatives of the people any policy of your own devising, for you have said that the will of the people is the law of the land. The records of this war and your subsequent fidelity afford evidence that the nation can safely and wisely place you in the chair of Washington and Lincoln. In behalf of the Convention we tender you its nomination for President, and solicit its acceptance. We can give you no higher proof of our gratitude for your past or our confidence in your future. We propose to elect you.

After the applause with which the above speech was received had ceased, Gen. Grant replied as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the National Union Convention: I will endeavor in a very short time to write you a letter accepting the trust you have imposed upon me. (Applause.) Expressing my gratitude for the confidence you have placed in me, I will now say but little orally, and that is to thank you for the unanimity with which you have selected me as a candidate for the Presidential office. I can say, in addition, I looked on during the proceedings at Chicago with a great deal of interest, and am gratified with the harmony and unanimity which seemed to have governed the deliberations of the Convention. If chosen to fill the high office for which you have selected me, I will give to its duties the same energy, the same spirit, and the same will that I have given to the performance of all duties which have devolved on me heretofore. Whether I shall be able to perform these duties to your entire satisfaction, time will determine. You have truly said in the course of your address that I shall have no policy of my own to interfere against the will of the people.

As the General concluded his speech there was long and continued applause.

Gen. Hawley then addressed Speaker Golfax, saying: You have heard our declaration of principles at Chicago, and therefore I need not repeat them. You are aware that numerous candidates for the Vice Presidency were presented. They were all loved and respected. Your selection was brought about by the good will and friendship entertained for yourself. You are known to the American people by fourteen years of valuable public service. We know you come from the people, and without false pretense you are faithful to principles. The Convention tenders you the nomination of Vice President and asks your acceptance. [Applause.]

To this Mr. Colfax replied as follows: Mr. President Hawley and Gentlemen—History has already proclaimed that the victories of the party you represent during the recent war always gave increased hope and confidence to the nation, while its reverses and defeats ever increase the national peril. It is no light tribute, therefore, to the millions of Republicans in the forty-two States and Territories represented in the Chicago Convention, that our organization has been so inseparably interwoven with the best interests of the republic, that the triumphs and reverses of the one have been the triumphs and reverses of the other. Since the General of our armies, with his heroic followers, crushed the rebellion, the key note of its policy, that loyalty should govern what loyalty preserved, has been worthy of its honored record in the war. Cordially agreeing with the platform adopted by its National Convention, and the resolutions thereto attached, I accept the nomination with which I have been honored, and will hereafter communicate that acceptance to you in the more formal manner that usage requires.

There were long and continued demonstrations of applause. The gentlemen present generally advanced and shook Gen. Grant and Speaker Colfax by the hand and congratulated them on the choice of the Convention. The party then withdrew to the adjoining room where a collation had been provided.

The Republicans held a Grant and Colfax ratification meeting to-night. Senator Wilson was among the speakers.

Grant and Colfax and the Soldiers—General Schofield Confirmed as Secretary of War--Nominations by the President—Stanbery for Attorney General.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 29, 1868.

GEN. GRANT AND THE SOLDIERS.

The Committee of the Soldiers and Sailors Convention called on General Grant this afternoon and formally presented him with a copy of the platform of principles of their Convention. After lively handshaking, Col. Alleman, of Pennsylvania, delivered a few complimentary remarks.

Gen. Grant, in reply, spoke as follows: "Gentlemen of the Soldiers and Sailors Convention—I will say, while it was never a desire of mine to be a candidate for political office, it affords me great gratification to feel that I have the support of those who were with me in the war. If I did not feel I had the confidence of those, I would feel less desirous of accepting the position. The acceptance of the office is not a matter of choice, but of duty. Hoping, having accepted the nomination, I will receive your aid till next November, I must thank you, gentlemen, for the honor you have conferred upon me."

The affair took place in the presence of the Convention Committee, with whom were General Gregg, Generals Rawlins, Badean, Porter, Comstock, Dent and Babcock, and Colonels Parker, Webster and Lee, of the General's staff. After a few moments' conversation General Grant extended a cordial invitation to the Committee to be present at his residence this evening, on the occasion of the formal presentation of the nomination of the National Convention. The Committee then left the General's headquarters for the Capitol, to offer their congratulations to Speaker Colfax.

MR. COLFAX WAITED ON.

At two o'clock the Committee were received by Mr. Colfax in the Speaker's room of the Capital. After greeting the Committee with his customary cordiality, and listening to a few remarks by Col. Alleman, Mr. Colfax responded briefly. He alluded in striking terms to the perils by land and sea which were endured by the soldiers and sailors of the Union in defense of the Constitution and flag of their country. Great as were the obligations of the nation to those at home who stood by the Government in its hour of trial, greater still was the debt of gratitude it owed to those who left home and all, at the risk of life and limb, to save the Republic from destruction, going forth from every portion of the Republic, some in the freshness of life's June and some in ripe the maturity of life's October. The land South and North is filled with the graves of the nation's patriot sons. Their memory will ever be inscribed in all patriotic hearts as long as time shall last or the republic endure. Thanking the Committee who represented the survivors of the heroic defenders of the Union for this expression of their esteem and regard, he closed with the assurance that if the ballot box should ratify the nominations at Chicago, his fidelity to principle and devotion to the Union would show that their confidence had not been misplaced. A copy of the platform of principles was presented to Mr. Colfax, and after a few moments the Committee retired and the Speaker returned to his duties in the House of Representatives.

GEN. SCHOFIELD'S NOMINATION TO THE WAR OFFICE CONFIRMED.

The Senate in Executive session today resumed the consideration of the nomination of General Schofield to be Secretary of War. The debate was confined to the preamble and resolution introduced yesterday, as follows:

WHEREAS, The order of the President removing Secretary Stanton from office was unconstitutional and illegal, but on account of Mr. Stanton having on Tuesday relinquished said office, therefore Resolved, That the Senate do advise and consent to the appointment of Gen. Schofield.

There was not a full Senate, but the parties separated on the preamble as they did on the impeachment articles, while the vote on the resolution itself was without such distinction. Both the preamble and resolution were adopted, and therefore Gen. Schofield is confirmed as Secretary of War.

Washington Topics and Gossip

Specials of Friday say: The caucus of the Republican members of the House, which had been called, was prevented by the late session last night over Mr. Wooley's case. One of the principal subjects which it was proposed to decide, was the tax on whisky. There seems to be a universal impression that it will be reduced to twenty-five cents, though a compromise may be had at fifty cents per gallon. Many Republicans who have hitherto opposed any reduction of this tax now favor it, saying that the Managers' investigation, corroborating the whole history of the tax, show thats the whisky ring is too strong for the Government, and must therefore be got rid of in the only possible way. The question for the time of adjournment, and whether the revenue law shall be undertaken this summer, with matters pertaining to the Presidential canvass, may also come before the caucus, which has been fixed for Monday evening.

There is very little doubt that Gen. Schofield will be confirmed as Secretary of War, although the Democrats are trying hard to get Gen. Hancock nominated in his stead. The Republicans don't like to confirm Gen. Schofield vice Secretary Stanton, removed, but they will have to do it in the end, and thus stultify their records once more.

General Thomas attended the Cabinet meeting as Secretary of War yesterday, but Gen. Townsend has charge of the War Office.

The Senate Corruption Investigating Committee will commence work next week. It is generally believed that one or two Senators at least will be expelled.

Either ex-Senator Cresswell or General Brisbin will be chosen Secretary of the Senate on Monday next. The friends of both are working hard. Ex-Senator Foster, of Connecticut, will get the votes of the anti-impeachers.

Mr. Woolley still refuses to testify in regard to the disposal made by him of certain moneys. It is now pretty clear that the vote of a Western Senator was bought indirectly, but has not yet been paid for in full. There are those here who name the man suspected, and have some idea of the scheme of corruption; but it is best not to publish anything of the kind that is not official.

Mr. Colfax has been informed that the printers all over the country are forming Grant and Colfax clubs to work for his election. Mr. Defrees will get up a club in this city.

Robert J. Walker will succeed Secretary McCulloch, if the latter should resign.

Grand Army of the Republic—Tribute to the Memory of Departed Comrades.

Pursuant to an order issued by General Logan, commander of the G. A. R., a Convention of the Posts in this vicinity was hold on Thursday evening relative to observing Saturday, May 30th, as a day for paying a tribute of respect to the memory of their departed comrades. The meeting was organized by calling Col. E. A. Montooth to the Chair, after which resolutions were adopted, appointing a committee to procure a church in which to hold religious services to-morrow, instead of complying strictly with the order, by strewing the graves of departed soldiers with flowers today, and inviting the clergy of Allegheny county and all soldiers to participate therein.

The committee appointed at the above meeting met last evening and made the following arrangements:

The services will be held in the First Presbyterian Church of this city, at 7½ o'clock to-morrow (Sunday) evening, Rev. S. F. Scovel, officiating. All honorably discharged soldiers and sailors are requested to assemble at the League Hall, No. 127 Lacock street, Allegheny, at half-past six o'clock, when a procession will be formed and march to the place of holding the services.

This arrangement will not of course interfere with any one desiring to carry out the request in Gen. Logan's order, to strew the graves of departed soldiers with flowers, to-day, but is substituted on account of its being inexpedient for the Association to comply with the order.

Fashionable Wedding.

E. P. Kearns, Esq., of the Evening Advocate, of this city, was married to one of Harrisburg's gifted daughters, on Wednesday evening, in that city. The wedding was the most brilliant and fashionable ever held at the Capitol, and occasioned unusual excitement and gossip. There were seven bridesmaids and groomsmen, and the church, where the impressive ceremony was performed, was crowded to its utmost capacity, there being fully two thousand persons in attendance. The reception at the residence of the bride's mother was largely attended by the elite of Harrisburg, as well as guests from all parts of the country. The bridal presents were in keeping with the general magnificence of the occasion, being numerous, rich and appropriate, reflecting not only the taste and generosity of the donors, but likewise the large measure of esteem in which the young bride was held. The happy couple have our heartiest congratulations and best wishes.

Arrest of a Bank Officer.—The cashier of a private banking firm of the oil regions was arrested last night by Chief-of-Police Green, on a charge of obtaining the sum of two hundred dollars by means of a bogus check on the bank he represented. It is said that he has proven a defaulter to a large amount, but the gentleman claims his ability to prove all these charges unfounded when afforded a proper opportunity.

WHITTIER TO COLFAX.

Colfax!—well chosen to preside
O'er Freedom's Congress, and to guide,
As one who holds the reins of fate,
The current of its destinies;
Prompted by one to praise or good,
And dare, whatever, to be withstood,
Here, from our Northern river banks,
I send to thee my hearty thanks
For all the patience which has borne
The weary foot of Bunkum's horn,
The blasting of the Copperhead,
And Polly Groppius' words of lead!
Still wisely ready when the scale
Hangs poised to make the right prevail;
Still foremost, though Secession's head
Be crushed, with scornful heel to tread
The life out from its writhing tail!
As wise, firm, faithful to the end,
God help thee, prays thy sincere friend.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

A Good Story of Sir Matthew Male.

A gentleman of considerable estate, residing in the eastern part of England, had two sons. The oldest being of a rambling disposition, went abroad. After several years his father died, when the younger son destroyed his will, and seized upon the estate. He gave out that his brother was dead, and bribed some false witnesses to attest the truth of it. In the course of time, the elder brother returned, and in miserable circumstances. His younger brother repulsed him with scorn—told him that he was an imposter, asserting that his brother was dead long ago, and he could bring witnesses to prove it. The poor fellow, having neither money nor friends, was in a most dismal situation. He went round the parish making bitter complaints; and, at last, came to a lawyer, who, when he had heard the poor man's mournful story, undertook his cause, and entered an action against the younger brother, which was agreed to be tried at the next general assizes, at Chelmsford, in Essex.

The lawyer having engaged in the cause of the poor man, set his wits to work to counteract the powerful interest exerted against him. At last he hit upon the happy thought, that he would consult the first of all the judges, Lord Chief Justice Hale. Accordingly he flew up to London and laid open the cause in all its circumstances. The Judge heard the case patiently and attentively, and promised all the assistance in his power. With this object he contrived matters in such a manner, as to have finished all his business at the king's bench before the assizes began at Chelmsford. When his carriage had conveyed him down very near the seat of the assizes, he dismissed his man and equippage, and sought out a retired house. He found one occupied by a miller. After some conversation, and making himself quite agreeable, he proposed to the miller to change clothes with him, and, as the Judge had a good suit on, the man had no reason to object. Accordingly, the Judge put on a complete suit of the miller's best, and armed with a stick, away he marched to Chelmsford, procured lodgings to his liking, and waited for the assizes that were to begin the next day. When the trial came on he walked like an ignorant country fellow, backward and forward, along the county hall, and s on found out the poor fellow that was plaintiff. As soon as he came into the hall, the miller drew up to him: "My honest friend," said he "how is your case likely to go to-day?" Replied the plaintiff, "My cause is in a very precarious situation, and if I lose it I am ruined for life," "Well, here friend," replied the miller, "will you take my advice? I will let you into a secret, which perhaps you do not know; every Englishman has the right and privilege to except against any juryman, through the whole twelve; now do you insist upon your privilege, without giving a reason why, and I will do you all the service in my power." Accordingly, when the clerk of the court had called over the jurymen, the plaintiff excepted to one of them by name. The judge on the bench was highly offended with this liberty. "What do you mean," said he, "by excepting against that gentleman?" "I mean, my lord, to assert my privilege as an Englishman, without giving the reasons why." "Well sir," said the judge, who had been deeply bribed, "as you claim your privilege, who would you wish to have in the room of that man excepted against?" After a short time taken into consideration, "My lord," said he, "I wish to have an honest man chose in," and he looked around the court. "My lord, there is that miller in the court we will have him if you please." Accordingly the miller was chose in. As soon as the clerk of the court had given them all their oaths, a little dexterous fellow came into the department, and slips ten golden caroluses into the hands of the eleven jurymen, but gave the miller but five. He observed that they were all bribed as well as himself, and to his next neighbor in a soft whisper, he said, "How much have you got?" "Ten pieces," said he. He concealed what he had himself. The cause was opened by the plaintiff's counsel, and all the scraps of evidence they could fish up were adduced in his favor.

The younger brother was provided with a great number of witnesses, all bribed as well as the judge. They deposed that they were in the self-same country when the brother died, and saw him buried. The counselors argued upon this accumulated evidence, and everything went with a full tide in favor of the younger brother. The judge said, "Gentlemen are you agreed, and who shall speak for you?" "We are agreed my lord," replied one, "our foreman shall speak for us." "Hold, my lord," replied the miller, "we are not all agreed." "Why," says the judge, in a very surly manner, "what's the matter with you? What reasons have you for disagreeing?" "I have several reasons, my lord," replied the miller. "The first is, they have given to all these gentlemen of the jury ten broad pieces of gold, and to me but five; besides, I have my objections to make to the false reasonings of the lawyers, and the extraordinary evidence of the witnesses. Upon this the miller began a discourse, that discovered such vast penetration of judgment, such extensive knowledge of law, and expressed with such energetic and manly eloqnence, as to astonish the judge and the whole court. As he was going on with his powerful demonstration, the judge, in surprise, stopped him. "Where did you come from and who are you?" "I came from Westminster Hall," replied the miller. "My name is Matthew Hale—I am Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench. I have observed the iniquity of your proceedings this day, and therefore come down from a seat you are unworthy to hold. You are one of the corrupt parties in this iniquitous business. I will come up this moment, and try the cause all over again." Accordingly, Sir Matthew went up, with his miller's dress and hat on, began with the trial from its very origin; searched every circumstance of truth and falsehood; proved the elder brother's title to the estate, and gained a complete victory in favor of truth and justice.

—Information has been received at Washington that the Provisional Government of Crete has decided to convoke a regular Parliament. Elections are taking place in all parts of the island. The members elect will hold their first session at Canea, the capital of Crete. Another battle took place on the 3d inst., near Sphakia, during which the Cretans drove the Turks from two blockhouses which they built only recently for their entrenchment.

NARROW ESCAPE.

FROM THE HOME JOURNAL.

In a private letter from a distinguished lady correspondent, we find the relation of one of the most thrilling incidents we have ever met with in romance or in history; and acting upon the discretionary power our fair friend has given us, we lay the little drama before our readers, suppressing the name of its involuntary hero.

Capt. H. of the English Navy, had been spending a few days in London, on his return from the station. The crew of his vessel had been paid off at Deptford, and having spent with a friend the preceding evening, the day fixed for his departure for Plymouth, where his family resided, he had started to return to his lodgings at an advanced hour of the night. The moon was beautifully clear, the air sharp and bracing; and thinking over his plans for the morrow, Captain H. was walking briskly, when his attention was attracted by the sight of a female, elegantly dressed, standing at the door of a handsome house. He was passing on, however; when she came hastily up to him, and addressing him as "Captain," desired he would step in for a moment, as she had something to communicate to him. The woman was singularly beautiful, her language refined, and her dress extremely elegant. Sailors are not apt to be over scrupulous, and H. was not proof against the temptation. He entered the house, ascended the stairs and followed his fair conductress into what appeared to be, by the light of the moon streaming in at the window, a large and well furnished apartment. "Pray be seated," said she, "I will return immediately with a light." As she closed the door, H. thought he heard her turn the key. He took little notice of this seemingly trifling incident, but ascribed it to her fear of his leaving the room before she returned, and amused himself in the meanwhile by examining the contents of the apartment. Facing the windows stood a French beadstead. He approached it, and mechanically threw open the curtains that neatly concealed it. The opera air he was humming died on his lips, and the warm blood curdled in his veins, at the sight that met his horror-struck gaze. The bright beams of the moon shone full on the body of an officer attired in his regimentals, and whose throat was cut from ear to ear! The blood was fresh, and still streaming from the hideous gash, and the eyes wide open, and glaring upwards. He stood petrified for a few moments, at length, summoning resolution, he stretched out his hand, and touched the face of the corpse; the body was still warm! The truth flashed on his mind—the girl had locked him in, and was gone for officers of the police to arrest him, for the deed she had doubtless herself committed. He rushed to the door, and set all the strength of a desperate man to force it open; but it resisted his efforts. What should he do? Time was flying fast, and the next moment might see him thrown into prison, and awaiting the ignominious sentence which would doom him to the death of a felon. Appearances would inevitably condemn him; and as these thoughts rose up before him, though a man of noted intrepidity, his presence of mind seemed totally to fail him in this great emergency. In a state of mind bordering on distraction, he threw open the window, and measured the distance to the ground. The room was situated in the second story, and death seemed inevitable if he adopted that mode of escape; still, death, and what was far worse, disgrace awaited him if he remained, and goaded by this dreadful idea, he sprung into the street below. Strange to say he alighted on his feet totally unharmed. Scarce pausing to congratulate himself on his good fortune, he dashed forward with the speed of a deer, and never stopped to take breath until he reached his lodgings. On the following day he started for Plymouth, vowing to observe more prudence in future, ere he accepted the invitations of unknown women. Some days after he read in the London papers an account of the murder, and the testimony of the girl, accusing a man of doing the deed, who had probably made his escape during her absence. The sequel of the affair never came to his ears, as he again left England a short time after: but he kept his own counsel, and never mentioned his narrow escape for some years when he related it to a relation of mine, from whom I in turn had the story.

Extraordinary Escape.

A most remarkable escape from a position of fearful peril occurred at the Clifton Paper Mill, carried on by Messrs. King & Hagar, on Saturday last. The circumstances, as we learn them from Colonel David King, were substantially these: "A boy named Srofe, about ten years of age, was engaged in rolling paper around a horizontal shaft, when the sleeve of his right arm was caught by the shaft, and he was hurled around it, fortunately not with extreme velocity, as the shaft was turning at a moderate speed.

Close to the shaft was a horizontal wooden roller resting on bearings, and the boy's feet, as he was drawn under the shaft, struck this roller and hurled it about ten feet through the air. It struck a young man, who was at work in the room, on the side of the head, knocking him to the floor insensible. The fireman was also in the room, and hastened to the shaft to throw it out of gear; but, as he came near it, the boy's feet struck him on the head, and he too was knocked down. Not being injured, however, he immediately gathered himself up and succeeded in stopping the shaft. The boy was extricated, and was found not to be dangerously hurt. One of his arms was badly wrenched, and he is otherwise bruised so that he will doubtless be laid up for some time. None of the other parties were seriously injured. The escape of the boy from death (he was taken from the shaft within eight inches from the post which supported it at one end) was little short of miraculous.—Springfield (O.) Republic.

THE GERMAN POLAR EXPEDITION—The German expedition to the North Pole, the cost of which is estimated at 15,000 thalers, (72½ cents each,) will definitely leave Bergen, Norway, on the 15th inst. The greater part of the crew have already quitted Hamburg for that port. The vessel which Mr. Coveldog, the leader, has purchased there, is one of those new Danish yachts specially constructed for Polar voyages. It is furnished with beams and iron plates in a way to augment its powers of resistance. The name is Germania, and the flag of the Northern Confederation will be displayed. It measures eighty tons, and will have a crew of twelve or fourteen men.

River and Weather.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MEMPHIS, May 29.—The Memphis and Arkansas river packet Centralia, from Fort Smith to Memphis, struck a snag at Auburn Landing, Wednesday, and sunk in nine feet of water. She will prove a total loss; owned by the Memphis and Arkansas Packet Company; valued at fifteen thousand dollars; insured in Cincinnati and St. Louis for twelve thousand.

LOUISVILLE, May 29.—The river is about at a stand, with seven feet five inches of water in the canal.

RIVER NEWS.

The Allegheny somewhat unexpectedly rose about four feet during Thursday night and yesterday, the marks last evening indicating ten feet. The Monongahela also rose considerably, with eight feet six inches in the channel here, and nine feet reported at Brownsville, and rising. At Oil City at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, there were forty inches, and rising slowly. The weather continues cloudy and sultry, with every appearance of more rain.

Business was apparently a little more active at the landing yesterday, though there is still plenty of room for improvement. We observed quite a number o tugs connected with the coal fleet smoking up last evening, and to-day it is likely quite a number of them will start south with "black diamonds."

The Lorena, from St. Louis, and New York, from Nashville, have arrived. The St. Charles, from Cincinnati, got in about nine o'clock on Thursday night, and departed again last night.

The Bayard, from Parkersburg, arrived and departed, and the Grey Eagle, Capt. Brennan, is the regular packet for Parkersburg to-day, leaving promptly at noon.

The Glendale, from St. Louis, and St. Marys, from Cincinnati, are due between now and Monday.

It was rumored yesterday that the turn system, which, apparently had been working well, has, or is about to be broken up, and that the Leonidas is going to "pitch in" for a St. Louis trip, notwithstanding the America was in turn after the Messenger. As a consequence, St. Louis freights dropped down from 25 to 30 to 15 to 20c—good for shippers, but we fear the same cannot be said for steamboat owners.

Owing to the unexpected rise in the river, the Argosy did not take her departure for Cincinnati yesterday, Captain Vandergrift having concluded to lie over and take all the freight offering to-day. She will leave to-day, positively.

The Messenger left for St. Louis last night with a very good trip.

The Bellevernon left St. Louis for Pittsburgh on Wednesday. The Wild Duck will arrive from St. Louis early next week.

The St. Marys, Captain T. C. Sweeney, is the regular Monday packet for Cincinnati, leaving at 5 p. m.

The Glendale and Wild Duck left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday.

The Baltic, from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, with two barges of iron ore, came up through the canal at Louisville on Tuesday.

The contract for transporting United States army supplies between St. Louis and New Orleans, for the twelve months commencing June 1st, has been awarded to Capt. John N. Bofinger, late Superintendent of the A. & M. S. S. Co.

The Silver Cloud, from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, has 175 bbls molasses and 6 bales rags, for Cincinnati; 150 tuns ore for Wheeling; 1,000 bbls flour, for Pittsburgh, and 1,650 pigs lead and 400 tuns for points above.

A St. Louis telegram, under date of Wednesday, says: The Missouri river is harrassingly low; will improve by the channel cutting out.

The latest advices are that all the sternwheels between Omaha and the mouth were using their spars to lift themselves over the sand-bars.

The river was still falling yesterday at Omaha and St. Joseph. Heavy rains in the upper rivers.

The packets going north have from three to four hundred passengers on passing Dubuque.

Competition firm.

The Dubuque and Milwaukee raced from Wabash to Dubuque. The latter claims the race. The new Alton packet begins to beat every boat running north from here. Although shipments to New Orleans appear light, there is as much freight going as before the war—enough to load six such boats per week as the Gladiator, Choutean and Kennet.

Arrived—Lawrence, last evening.

Announced to leave to-day—Bellevernon, Putnam and Nightingale.

The Magenta, independent packet, leaves for New Orleans to-day. The Frank Paragoud will be here on Monday to load.

We take the following from the St. Louis Democrat of Tuesday: The auction sale advertised for some weeks took place at noon yesterday on 'Change. Capt. Henry W. Smith, of the Memphis Packet Company performed the services, for which he is deemed the best fitted person in the community. The Forsyth was first offered, eliciting a bid of $2,500. The figures languidly rose to $6,100, at which price she was turned over to Walker R. Carter, the well-known boat store and steamboat stock dealer. She, like the others, is a good sized side-wheel steamer. She was built November, 1862, for Captain Dan Able and others, at a cost of $55,000.

The Luminary was next held up to the admiration of the audience, which was unusually large, and the bidding very slow, and a bid of $7,500 was vouchsafed by Mr. David Powell. She was finally knocked down to Wm. Fitzgerald for $14,750. She was built in February, 1863, for Messrs. Williamson, Beltzhoover and others, at a cost of $56,000.

The Mississippi, the last of the list, was then put up. After considerable delay, Capt. Dave Campbell, the wrecker, faintly proffered $5,000, and was instantly put to flight and covered with confusion by a loud bid of $15,000 from Capt. W. J. Lewis, who stood at Campbell's rear. She was awarded to W. R Carter for $17,800. This steamer was built, we think, early in 1864, and cost about $100,000. Terms of sale, one-third cash, balance in four, eight and twelve months. This sale demonstrates the fact if it required demonstration, that the demand for steamboat stock is very light, and that it is of very little value. Indeed, the question, where can you put a boat to make money? is often asked and not easily answered.

The Luminary will be placed in the St. Louis and Vicksburg trade, with the popular Captain James F. Luker in command. The others were bid in for the Atlantic and Mississippi Steamship Company.

The Lexington was also put up at Auction at the wharf whereshe lies, and only $4,900 being bid for her, she was withdrawn from sale by her owners.

The Dubuque Herald, of Saturday, says: Freight tariffs are quiet, only one line receiving at six cents per sack. The white collar line is refusing freight at these rates, giving as a reason that its boats have all they can carry at better prices. Competition on passengers is active, and ticket issued at half fare, $5, cabin, to St. Paul or St. Louis, and $1 and upwards on deck.

Steamboat companies are having a tough time on the river this season, and with competition, loss of business and low rates, are puzzled to make expenses. No line on the river has felt the effects of competition and its consequences—low rates—more than the N. W. U. Packet Company.

CITY OF PITTSBURGH WATER LOAN.

PROPOSALS FOR

OF THE

Bonds of the "Water Extension Loan,"

Will be received at the office of the CITY CONTROLLER, Fourth street.

These are COUPON BONDS, bearing interest at the rate of SEVEN PER CENT. per annum, payable semi-annually, at the office of the City Treasurer, and the Bonds are to be paid off in twenty-five years from April 1, 1868.

By Act of Assembly the Revenue of the Water Works is pledged for the payment of the Bonds and Coupons, and the latter are by law made receivable for Water Rents, and the Act authorizing the Loan creates a SINKING FUND of not less than two per cent. of all bonds which may have been issued in pursuance of said Act. The Councils are bound to appropriate annually a sufficient sum for interest, and not less than two per cent. of all bonds which may have issued to go into the Sinking Fund.

The proceeds of these Bonds can only be used for the extension and improvement of the City Water Works, which will increase the revenue, while at present it is far greater than is required to insure the payment of interest and retirement of the Bonds.

The Bonds are EXEMPT FROM STATE, COUNTY and CITY TAX, which, together with all the foregoing advantages, make the Bonds the most desirable security offered to the public.

Bids under par will not be considered.

By order of Finance Committee.

THE PRIMARIES MEETINGS TO-DAY.

Let every citizen of Allegheny county, who intends to support GRANT and COLFAX this year, remember his privilege and be faithful to the duty of attending the primary meetings this afternoon.

The returns will be reported at the headquarters of the Second Ward Grant Club, No. 66 Smithfield street, this evening.

A MAJORITY of the Senate rejects the nomination of HUBBELL, the soln-out Republican from Ohio, for a Montana Collectorship. Had his rejection required a two-thirds vote, he would doubtless have been confirmed.

THE Southern press redoubles its urgent appeals to the President for the issue of a proclamation of general amnesty. His response will be forthcoming at an early day, probably prior to the sitting of the Democratic National Convention.

EX-GOVERNOR HAWLEY, of Connecticut, Chairman of the late Chicago Convention, yesterday formally notified Gen. GRANT and Mr. COLFAX of the action of that body in nominating them for the Presidency and Vice Presidency. They both promised to write letters and formally accept the honor conferred.

GEN. SCHOFIELD, a staunch friend and supporter of General GRANT, and an earnest outspoken Radical, has been confirmed by the Senate as Secretary of War to succeed Mr. STANTON. This action will meet with the approval of all loyal citizens, who recognize in the new appointee a gentleman to be trusted and one eminently qualified for the position.

IT is plain that the investigation by the House, into the alleged corruptions of Senators, have so far succeeded that they have caught the right man, in the contumacious witness, WOOLEY. He and his Democratic backers in the House are fairly "cornered." The facts in his knowledge must ultimately be divulged, if the House persists firmly in its demand. Public opinion at the Capital is rapidly chrystalizing into a conviction that a Western Senator's vote was bought and has been in part paid for. The progress of inquiry has strengthened this suspicion in place of removing it. It is sincerely to be hoped that this whole matter may be probed to the bottom.

AMERICAN LOYALTY honors itself to-day in the simple but touching testimonials with which it decorates the graves of the dead soldiers of the Union. The cemeteries which have been especially dedicated by a grateful people for the repose of their mouldering dust, the less conspicuous graves which fringe all the battle-fields, and the isolated monuments which here and there dot the face of the Republic, rearing thousands of memorial-shafts in attestation of the love which sacredly enshrines the memories of the dead heroes—all these are to-day to be visited, by loyal hearts which hold these memories dear, to lay upon them the beautiful tributes of loyal devotion to an Union which lives because these heroes offered their lives to preserve it. And yet how pleasant it is to believe that their death was only the dissolution of mortality, and that their names, their deeds, the cause which they saved and the sacrifices which saved it, will immortally live in the hearts of their countrymen:

How sleep the brave who sink to rest,
By all their country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallowed mold,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod,
Than Fairy's feet have ever trod.

By hands unseen their knell is rung;
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honor comes, a pilgrim grey,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay,
And thither Duty shall repair,
To dwell, a mourning hermit there.

IN "relinquishing" an office which he has not found it necessary to resign, Mr. STANTON commits to the care of the Senators an elephant which annoys them exceedingly. The acquittal of the President was effectively a vote sanctioning the right of removal, which he had already exercised and no resignation from the Secretary was needed. If the Senate adheres to this view—and it is the legitimate sequence of the acquittal—the Tenure-of-Office law is nullified, and a clean official sweep throughout the country will be the next thing in order. The War office is not vacant unless STANTON be regarded as removed; if it be held to be vacant, every other office in the country requiring Senatorial confirmation will be vacated in the same way, and, if it be not vacant, the vote of acquittal was a blunder, if not worse. Mr. STANTON would have solved this difficulty for Senators by resigning, but he very properly considered that he had no call to do this merely for their accommodation. The Senate can only act consistently by accepting that removal as a fact, and, if other Federal office holders are to go to the wall as the result of it, this will probably be quite as well for the country and the Republican party.

PRESBYTERIAN REUNION—A LAY VIEW OF IT.

This week the General Assemblies of both the Old and New School Presbyterian Churches have been in session—the Old at Albany, N. Y., and the New at Harrisburg in this State. In accordance with the initiatory measures taken last year, the projected Reunion of these two bodies has been under consideration. The details have already been recited in these columns.

The arrangements proposed touching the management of the Trust Funds and Educational Foundations of the two organizations seem to have been well digested. Indeed, it is not at all probable that trouble would arise out of those matters unless uncomfortable friction should be first experienced on points of doctrine or discipline. Such, manifestly, is the conviction that pervades both Assemblies, for, while the validity of the old standards—equally recognized by both bodies—is reaffirmed, special care is taken to ensure toleration for diversities of statement and interpretation. Political Platform makers may be presumed to understand what this means.

The Evangelical doctrine, in its purity, affirms that the "Scriptures of the Old and New Testament are the only infallible rule of faith and practice." This formula has been variously phrased. Sometimes it has been written "The Bible, and the Bible alone, is the Religion of Protestants." At other times the favorite expression has been, "An open Bible in the hands of every person, and he or she to judge of it, in the sight of God." Such were the inculcations which gave impetus and success to that grand and beneficent movement known as the Reformation. How these broad and unqualified assertions of individual liberty and responsibility can be reasonably construed to comport with the interjection of an authoritative form of belief between the individual soul and its Creator, is not easily explained. Hence, the chief perplexity of the Assemblies.

Both concur in the cardinal fact that the Bible, and that alone, is the ultimate and absolute standard of orthodoxy in opinion and of purity in conduct. Yet, both feel it will not do to rest there; that it is needful in addition to unite upon a dogmatic and arbitrary specification of the essential points of doctrine taught in the Bible. If this specification was suffered to remain simply as a convenient summary of the average interpretation given by the church to the biblical teachings, it would not trench upon the rights of conscience or personal independence; but when it is made obligatory upon each individual to interpret the inspired volume in the prescribed way, and no other, it would seem that ecclesiastical authority was as certainly interposed between each man or woman and his or her Maker, as under the Catholic Hierarchy. Whatever differences in degree of Spiritual Despotism may be alleged, none exists as to quality and substance.

Hence the protest of Dr. PATTERSON against the basis of reunion. We do not say that he formulated the objections, as we have above; but his objections, when reduced to their essential elements, will coincide with our statement of them, though he may not be aware how far their roots run. He was fearful that the Old School, being in the majority, would, in the event of reunion, soon or ultimately, enforce indentity of statement and illustration upon all doctrinal points, and that the New School minority would find this at first irksome and then intolerable. This is a revival, scarcely under a new form, of the old controversy between Authority and Freedom in matters of Religion. Dr. PATTERSON's objections so far as they have intrinsic weight, reach much beyond his special application of them. If the New School Church has just right to demand and constrain uniformity of opinion, why has not the Old School Church or the Catholic?

But Dr. PATTERSON under-estimates the changes that thirty years have wrought in the whole current of theologic opinions, specially in both of these branches of the Presbyterian Church, and generally throughout Christendom. If the New School men have risen, as they claim, to a fuller comprehension of the cardinal doctrines of the Christian system, and have attained to a juster and more harmonious method of illustrating and practically applying those doctrines than they possessed thirty years ago, it is fair to presume that their progress is not exceptional, but is part of a general movement in which their Old School brethren have consciously or unconsciously participated, as well as themselves.

The era of alienation, growing out of dogmatic controversy, is happily drawing to a close. Less stress is laid on forms of words, and more on right feeling and conduct. The Protestant denominations are forgetting their estrangements and remembering more and more the points on which they are in unison. These indications are for good, and we trust they will multiply and strengthen until, throughout all the world, there shall be but one Fold and one Shepherd.

THE Washington Review, in the course of an article strongly urging subscriptions to the stock of the Chartiers Railroad Company, pertinently says:

"A very large portion of those of our citizens most interested in this road can hear from their own doors the thunder of passing trains over a road already constructed in this county, and are well posted as to the magic effect the building of that road has had upon real estate and business along its route. Property is doubled and trebled, and business has sprung from a comparative "stand still" to full life and progress. Coal lands along the Pan Handle road, certainly inferior to similar lands upon the Chartiers, have gone up several hundred per cent., not because of any unwise or speculative feeling, but because they are opened to the river, and within marketable reach of the great manufacturing emporium of Western Pennsylvania."

THREE ex-Senators are announced as applicants for the office of Secretary of the U. S. Senate, which Mr. FORNEY has just vacated. The emoluments of the post are understood to be large.

UNNECESSARY APPREHENSIONS.

We sympathize with Senators, who are fearful of "self-stultification" if they should accept the President's nomination of a successor to STANTON "removed." The delicacy which precludes them from admitting the President's power of removal is refreshingly tender—under the present circumstances! It is of only recent growth, to be sure, the sharpest scrutiny not being able to detect this vigilant solicitude in behalf of Senatorial privileges when they were more gravely at issue a fortnight since. Do the Podsnaps of the Senate suppose that the country is to be imposed upon by a parade of empty words? The popular attention has been directed by recent everts so pointedly toward the variance between Senatorial circumlocution of speech and Senatorial promptitude of treachery in action, upon matters vital to the national interests, that glittering generalities will no longer weigh for any more than they are worth. People no longer care what Senators may say; they propose hereafter to take particular notice of what Senators may do, and this field of observation affords a scope quite broad enough for effective criticism. Instead of so much idle talk about "self-stultification," it would be well for them to remember that, by a vote which included seven men elected as Republicans, the Senate has already stultified itself beyond redemption. What they may do hereafter in that way is of comparatively little consequence.

TINKERING WITH RECONSTRUCTION.

A proposition has been made to amend the Arkansas bill in the Senate by striking out all provisions specifying fundamental conditions for the admission. This is very properly opposed, as at variance with the existing requirements of the reconstruction laws, and as otherwise inexpedient. The true path of safety for the future is in a faithful adherence to the policy of those laws. That policy will leave no indefinite latitude for possible reactions in Southern politics. The ratification of the Constitutional amendments, the irrepealable status of citizenship, without distinction of color or race, are incorporated in the express terms of the compact for the admission of the returning States, and as such are already accepted by the people of six of the ten communities, and will soon be adopted by the rest. The policy of reconstruction, including these essential features, has been acquiesced in by all parties, North and South. Wisely framed, it has been consistently and successfully carried to the conclusion which is now within reach. To disturb the finality which thus seems otherwise inevitable would be not only impolitic but unjustifiable.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The question of reunion is before several of the ecclesiastical bodies now in session, and the signs indicate an advance step, to what extent time will only develop. The Old and New School Presbyterian Assemblies are discussing the report of the Joint Committee, and the most favorable sign of its success is, that they are praying for light and assistance to direct them in their deliberations. The eyes of the Christian world have been directed to the proposed movement, and much is expected of it. If the union of these branches is effected, it will quicken the efforts to invite other bodies, that have entertained propositions for union. The spirit of union has been signally developed at the Methodist General Conference at Chicago, by the pleasant interchange of feeling in the presentation of the fraternal messengers from the Evangelical Association, (German Methodists), and from the African Methodist Episcopal Church. The General Conference has kindly met their advances, and has taken steps towards union, or at least a closer fellowship than heretofore. The Reformed Presbyterian Synod which has been in session in this city for several days, have given indications of a possible union at some future day with the United Presbyterian Church, but no action has been taken. Thus the work is progressing.

The General Synod of the Reformed (Dutch) Church will meet at Hudson, New York, Wednesday, June 3d. The chief points for action will relate to Christian work and the practical administration of affairs. The wants of the Theological Seminary will claim a good deal of attention.

The Christian Radical has just been re-established at Lancaster, Pa. It was formerly published at Denver, Colorado, and won a reputation for boldness, energy and ability, which made it quite a spicy sheet.

The Ohio Universalist Convention will meet at Dayton next Thursday, the 4th of June. Rev. E. L. Rexford is the preacher of the occasional sermon before the Convention, and Rev. A. W. Bruce will preach a special sermon on "Unity of Faith."

The corner-stone of the new Catholic Cathedral in Brooklyn will be laid on the third Sunday of June. The cost of the building is to be twelve hundred thousand dollars.

Application has been made to Bishop Stevens, of Pennsylvania, for permission to establish a kind of Ritualistic Church in Philadelphia. The Standing Committee and the Bishop decided not to allow the formation of the new parish.

Father Hecker, the Superior of the Order of Paulists, on a late tour in the North-west for preaching and lecturing, delivered a lecture at Chicago on "The Church and the Republic," in which he argued for the paradox that the religious teachings of the Roman Catholic Church are not only compatible with republican institutions, but absolutely necessary to their perpetuity. Father Hecker is a very graceful speaker, and speaks extemporaneously.

The Young Men's Christian Association of New York has commenced the erection of a fine edifice, on the corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-third street, immediately opposite the Academy of Design. It is to be five stories high. The lot is one hundred and seventy-five feet on Twenty-third street, and about eighty-five on Fourth Avenue.

The Independent has a notice of a meeting at Boston of the Episcopal Evangelization Society, presided over by Bishop Eastburn, at which Dr. Huntingdon and other clergymen of note defended the plan, urging that the denomination needed to be more plastic and accommodating to circumstances; that it has the liberty of other denominations, and ought to use it. Bishop Eastburn cordially endorsed the plan of sending out evangelists.

The Fourth Baptist Church of St. Louis, Rev. Dr. Osborn, pastor, has authorized the deacons to call upon such of the members of the church as they see fit to fill the pulpit at any time when the pastor may be absent.

From the report presented at the forty-fourth anniversary of the American Sunday School Union, held at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, we glean the following items: During the last year seventeen hundred and thirty-one new schools were organized, and sixty-six hundred schools visited and aided. One hundred missionaries were employed in twenty-two States.

Rev. John Chambers, of Philadelphia, on the forty-third anniversary of his pastorate, stated that when he took charge of the church in 1825, it consisted of sixty disheartened members. During this long period, at the communion seasons, which occur once in three months, additions to the church have taken place on every occasion, except once, varying from seven, the lowest number, to one hundred and twenty, the highest. The whole number added is about five thousand, and the present membership is nearly twelve hundred. About twenty have entered the Christian ministry and are scattered over the land.

Isaac Rich, Esq., a noble-hearted wealthy Methodist layman of Boston, who had recently given the Boston (Methodist) Theological Seminary fifty thousand dollars, quietly called on the treasurer week before last and increased the benefaction to one hundred thousand dollars.

According to the Religious Telescope, on a recent Sabbath there were four hundred and thirty-eight scholars in attendance upon the infant-school of the Fourth Baptist Church, St. Louis, Mo. This is a remarkable fact, and speaks very highly of the diligence of that church in this department of labor.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe thinks that very estimable, and professedly, very religious young women, enter the house of God in a costume which makes the acts of devotion in the service seem almost a burlesque. Think of a young woman coming to the Sanctuary of the Lord to confess that she is a miserable sinner, that she done those things she ought not to have done, and left undone the things she ought to have done, with hair frizzled till it stands on ends in a most startling manner, rattling string of beads and bits of tinsel, as if she came there for a game of croquet, or a tableau-party. She may look exceedingly pretty and piquante, but the Bible does not encourage such practices; and but few ministers have the courage to rebuke them.

A Clerical Conference is to be held at the Episcopal Residence (Bishop Domenec's) at two o'clock, next Tuesday, June 2d. The reverend clergy of the district are expected to be present.

Among the noticeable things before the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Chicago, is a memorial from eight clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal Church of New Jersey, asking them to consider the practicability of the union of the Episcopal and Methodist Churches.

The Ninth Annual Convention of the "Board of Delegates of American Israelites" was held some days since in New York. It represents fifty-four Jewish congregations. Forty delegates were present for twenty-five congregations.

The Choctaw Church is Presbyterian in its organization. The statistics sum up as follows: Ministers fourteen; churches sixteen; communicants seventeen hundred, and Sunday School children eleven hundred.

The Board of Home Missions of the United Presbyterian Church met at Salem, New York, Monday week. Quite a large number of delegates were present. Rev. A. Y. McAyeal was elected Chairman. The first call of the Presbyteries showed that $38,000 would be called for. One hundred and three missionaries were reported for service during the year. The report of the Secretary shows that the deficit of the last annual meeting was $11,000. The policy of the Board was to liquidate the debt of last year. This was done. But the result is, says the United Presbyterian, that the deficit in the treasury now is about $20,000, while but $17,000 have been raised during the year.

General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

NINTH DAY—MORNING SESSION.

Synod met at half-past nine o'clock, and was opened with prayer by the Moderator. Minutes read and approved.

Dr. McLeod assigned reasons for voting in the negative in the case of Mr. Geo. H. Stuart.

1. He preferred the paper, with some modifications, presented by S. B. W. McLeod, M. D., and for which the paper adopted was a substitute. I gave some general reasons for proceedings against Mr. Stuart, to which there was no reference in the substitute, and which, in his judgment, were of equal, if not greater, importance than those on which the act of discipline was passed.

The paper adopted gives to the standards of the Reformed Presbyterian Church on the subjects of psalmody and ecclesiastical communion, an unduly restricted and impractical construction.

The form of the censure inflicted is too severe for the thing charged. Striking the name from the roll of office and membership is the frequent practice of the Reformed Presbyterian Church in her various judicatories in regard to offences that do not involve immorality, or that would not prevent admission into other Christian churches. This, in his judgment, would have been sufficient, in the case.

The report of the Finance Committee was presented and adopted.

Moved by Dr. Scott that the stated clerk be directed to furnish Geo. H. Stuart with certified copies of all proceedings in his case.

The matter of printing the minutes was discussed at considerable length. It was referred to a special committee to report in the afternoon.

The Committee on the Theological Seminary reported. Accepted and adopted.

Proceeded to the order of the day, the consideration of the report of the Committee on Discipline, in relation to the case of the First Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Douglass, chairman of the Committee on Discipline, was called upon to state the circumstances of the case. This he did in a few remarks.

Dr. Wylie thought two additional resolutions should have been appended to the report to make it complete. These resolutions should have restrained the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania from the exercise of all judicial functions in the civil suit about to come before them in relation to this matter. He looked upon the report as very arbitrary indeed. The session has been compelled to suspend the elder referred to, for scandalous offences.

The paper was discussed at great length by Rev. Dr. Wylie, Rev. J. F. Morton, Rev. Samuel Young, Rev. W. J. McDowell, Dr. Douglas and others. It was adopted as read.

Drs. McAuley and Sterrett obtained leave of absence for the remainder of the session.

It was moved that the expenses of the Commission be paid out of the funds of the First Reformed Presbyterirn Congregation of Philadelphia. No action was taken upon that.

A large number asked leaves of absence during the remainder of the session. Leave was granted.

Dr. McMaster moved that the Synod meet in Cedarville, Ohio, on the third Wednesday of May, 1869. The Second Church, Philadelphia; was also nominated.

It was decided that Cedarville should be the place.

Synod then adjourned to meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. Dr. Sterrett concluded by prayer.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Synod met at three o'clock and was opened with prayer by the Moderator. The minutes were read and approved.

On motion, Dr. Douglas was instructed to present the action of Synod, to the United Presbyterian General Assembly, to which he has been delegated.

Report of Auditing Committee was approved.

Dr. Wylie read a protest against the reception of the certificate of delegation of the 2d Presbytery of Philadelphia, because no official information had been given of the organization of said Presbytery at the time the certificate was presented. Also a protest against the reception of papers from members of the First Congregation of Philadelphia. Also against the action of Synod in relation to George H. Stewart. Also against the Report of the Committee of Discipline on the matter relating to the First Church, Philadelphia.

The following protest against the action of Synod in the case of George H. Stuart, was read by Dr. Wylie.

Protest against the action of General Synod Reformed Presbyterian Church in case of George H. Stuart, in Session at Pittsburgh, May 29th, 1868.

1. Because, assuming that this Synod possesses the original jurisdiction it claims, this jurisdiction can be exercised only on the conditions and according to the order established in its own book of discipline, which it has violated in every particular specified in chapter 3d, section 2, pages 3, 6, 5, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11.

11. Because the form of the charge against Mr. Stuart was changed three different times, said charges being first presented by a resolution by James Sample, then in an amendment to said resolution by Dr. S. B. M'Leod, and then finally in a substitute for the whole subject presented by Rev. A. G. Wylie

III. Because at the time of the introduction of said resolution by Rev. A. G. Wylie, Mr. Stuart was confined to his room in the Monongahela House with a violent attack of spasmodic asthma, which rendered it impossible for him to attend Synod without danger to his life, as he was advised by his physician, James King, M. D., whose certificate to this effect was publicly read before the Synod.

IV. Because Mr. George H. Stuart was never duly notified of the resolution under which he was suspended.

V. Because the only official notice received by Mr. Stuart was the following, namely: The following resolution was passed by the General Assembly of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, at its session in Pittsburgh, May 27, 1868.

[Attest] JOHN MCLEOD,, Stated Clerk.

Resolved, That vote on the pending question (in the case of Mr. Stuart,) be taken at a quarter to twelve o'clock, M., this day, and that Mr. Stuart be informed of this by the Stated Clerk.

PITTSBURGH, May 27, 1868.

Which notice was not served on Mr. Stuart until about a quarter to eleven o'clock on Thursday, May 28.

VI. Because after the service of the aforesaid notice, but before the vote on said preamble and resolution, namely, at about a quarter past twelve o'clock, P. M., May 28th, Mr. G. H. Stuart, through Dr. T. W. J. Wylie, presented to the consideration of the Synod a paper solemnly denying each and all the allegations and charges contained in the preamble and resolution in manner and form as alleged, and protesting against the right of the Synod to pass the same, and yet, notwithstanding said denial and protest, without giving Mr. Stuart any opportunity of being heard in the defense, the Synod proceeded to take a vote on the preamble and resolution, and passed the same.

VII. Because the particular acts charged against Mr. Stuart have been allowed for many years in the Reformed Presbyterian Church, while well known to the Synod.

VIII. Because several other members of the Synod publicly declared on the floor of the Synod that they had done the things with which Mr. Stuart was charged, and no censure was proposed or passed on them.

IX. Because there is no evidence that Mr. Stuart's practice, as admitted by, although not as the form and manner alleged is contrary to a proper interpretation of the standards of the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

X. Because the form of ecclesiastical communion in the Reformed Presbyterian church require assent to our standards as embodying according to the word of God, the great principles of the covenanted Presbyterian reformation.

XI. Because the formula of queries to be put to ministers and ruling elders at ordination requires assent to the standard of the Reformed Presbyterian church only as embodying the great principles of the covenanted reformation.

XII. Because the passage of said resolution is calculated to produce great detriment to the Reformed Presbyterian church.

XIII. Because the passage of this resolution will produce great derision in religion.

XIV. Because Mr. George H. Stuart's eminent services in the cause of the Lord Jesus Christ for the Church at large, and this Church in particular, for the welfare of all classes and conditions of men, for the cause of missions at home and abroad, and especially on behalf of our soldiers during the recent struggle greatly aggravate the injustice and unkindness with which he has been treated.

Executive Committee of Board of Domestic Missions—Rev. J. F. Morton, J. C. McMillan, Samuel Dallas, Peter Gibson and John Miller.

The Committee on the communication from the Reformed Presbyterian Synod reported they could not endorse the harsh, and, as they are firmly persuaded, unfounded condemnation of our National Government which said letter contains. But this Synod will cordially co-operate with all who seek to bring our nation to acknowlege Jesus Christ as the Prince of the kings of the earth.

The following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That whereas it is desirable and expedient that this Church should have some medium through which it may be represented; and that whereas the paper styled the Banner of the Covenant, once under the jurisdiction and supervision of this Church has ceased to maintain our friendship and is published in conjunction with another paper, which advocates doctrines diametrically opposed to our standards; Be it therefore resolved that the monthly periodical called the Reformed Presbyterian Advocate recommend to the Church as deserving her codfidence and support; but that the Church will not be responsible for the articles that said journal may contain.

Various resolutions of thanks were passed.

The blank in the report of the Committee on Discipline was filled up by inserting Wednesday, 17th of June. The Commission will meet in the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The stated Clerk was instructed to notify the parties.

Thanks were returned to the railroad companies that gave commutation by fare to the delegates.

After the transaction of some routine business, and engaging in devotional exercises, Synod adjourned to meet in Cedarville, Ohio, on the third Wednesday of May, 1869, at 10 o'clock P. M.

For Assembly.

It will be observed by a card in to-day's GAZETTE that Mr. Alexander Chambers, of Liberty township, is announced as a candidate for assembly, subject to nomination by the Republican County Convention. It was only at the urgent solicitation of his many friends that Mr. Chambers allowed his name to be used, and these same friends will leave nothing undone in an honorable way to secure him a place on the Republican ticket. Mr. Chambers is well known in this community, having been long engaged in the glass manufacturing business, is possessed of the requsite ability to make an efficient legislator, and well informed as to all that pertains to the interests of this constituency.

NATURE IS THE GREAT PHYSICIAN.

This is now admitted, by the medical profession, as a fundamental principle of healing science. It is wisely provided by the human economy that whenever anything is wrong in the physical system the natural forces of the body are brought to bear to expel the disease. The great aim, therefore, is to strengthen the natural powers. This has been kept in view by the skillful compounders of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, which operates to give fresh vitality to all the organs of the body. The effect of this medicine upon the stomach, the liver and the kidneys, is prompt and decisive. The patient, who is wise enough to quit drugging and try the BITTERS, soon feels as if he had taken a new lease of life, and as he continues the use of the article, he is overjoyed to find the streams of health coursing through his frame. It is prepared with great care, and its component parts are entirely vegetable. It is free from the objections so often urged against preparations of the kind. As a medical agent it has no equal, while its pleasing flavor and healthful effects have made it a general favorite. It is free from all properties calculated to impair the system, and its operations are at once mild—soothing and efficient. All who have used HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS admit its virtues and commend it to use. Even those who are in enjoyment of perfect health frequently have need to have recourse to tonics as preventives of disease. We are never too well armed against the assaults of "the ills that flesh is heir to." In health or sickness this tonic cannot be taken regularly without giving vitality and elasticity to the system.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

Presidential Politics at Washington.

A dispatch to the Philadelphia Ledger of the 24th says: The Chicago nominations and the platform attached thereto have, during the past forty-eight hours, been discussed by leading representative men assembled in this city, and the general verdict as to the Grant and Colfax nominations is, that they are the strongest that could have been selected from among the candidates.

Speculation to-night is rife with regard to the probable nominees of the convention to meet in New York on the 4th of July. The leaders of the Pendleton interest have been here during the past ten days taking a view of the situation, and the friends of Hancock in considerable force have been upon the ground to compare notes and look over the field from a national stand-point. Ardent admirers of Seymour, Hendricks and Adams have also been here, but not in such organized combination.

From a thorough interchange of opinions between the gentlemen representing or supporting the above named proposed nominees, it is found that there is entire unanimity upon one proposition, namely, that in order to secure the nomination to the person who may be generally conceded to be the most popular among the entire conservative masses of Democrats and Republicans, the special interest of each particular candidate and the preferences for them shall give way, and all shall cheerfully unite to secure the most available candidate. One of the prominent candidates has himself written a letter to a friend in the city, in which he takes this ground, and adds that if it shall be found that in the Convention some other candidate is the preference, even by one vote, he desires that his friends promptly support that preferred man. In this comparison of views another fact is discovered, namely, that Chief Justice Chase would receive the hearty support of all these factions, and is always mentioned as their second choice at least; and among the most influential Conservative men here there has started up quite a formidable party in favor of nominating Chase and Seymour, and, on the latter refusing to permit his name to go before the Convention, then that Governor English be nominated for the Vice Presidency. This ticket to-night seems to be the accepted available combination, and besides the various arguments presented in its favor, it is urged that Judge Chase could carry seventy electoral votes from the South.

There are other candidates named for the Presidency, but there does not appear to be any united action among their friends. Of this class is President Johnson, who has a number of supporters who would prefer him, but they are waiting the end of impeachment before organizing for an effective canvass.

A letter from Richmond to the New York Times says: Chief Justice Chase has suddenly become very popular with the people and press of Virginia, and those who a few months since were loudest in denouncing him, can now scarcely find words to express their admiration of the upright man and just Judge. On all sides his praises are sounded, and notwithstanding precedent and the fates seem to declare that the President must be a military man—for each war has given a soldier ruler to the nation—thousands seem to believe that with Chase as standard-bearer of a great Conservative or moderate party, the victory would be secured. Certain it is that the people in this section have suddenly discovered that Mr. Chase and the "noble seven" "who would rather be right than be Presidents," have suddenly become marvelous proper men.

The Third Party Movement.

Mr. Johnson has long cherished the notion of a third party, and this idea, if not suggested, was stimulated by Mr. Seward, who saw no chance for his cordial reception by the Democratic leaders. The Philadelphia Convention was gotten up by Johnson and Seward for this purpose, though joined afterward by many Democrats who had no idea of abandoning their regular organization. The purpose was to elect Mr. Johnson or Mr. Seward by a great popular movement, on the ruins of the old parties; but the scheme was broken up. It is believed to have been revived lately by Mr. Seward and his adjutants Thurlow Weed and Raymond. The course of events, and the impeachment broglio, have furnished the material for this movement, and the following prominent politicians are named as persons likely to favor it: Andrew Johnson, Seward, McCulloch, Browning, Randall, Stanbery, Chief Justice Chase, the two Ewings, Robert J. Walker, Groesbeck, Fessenden, Trumbull, Grimes, Ross, Van Winkle, Fowler, Henderson, Evarts, Gen. Banks, Reverdy Johnson, Jay Cooke, and a number of journalists, embracing Raymond, Thurlow Weed, W. C. Bryant and other influential men.—Washington Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.

A LETTER from Chattanooga, Tenn., says: "Up here the corn is either just in, or barely visible above the ground. In middle Mississippi a large portion of the corn is knee-high, and has been ploughed the second time. The cotton in Eastern Mississippi and Western Alabama has come up well, and, upon those plantations where the labor is sufficient, has been 'chopped out' and brought nearly to a stand. The prospect in the very limited portion of the cotton land that is devoted to the staple is good. But it is truly lamentable to see the great area of rich open lands lying idle for want of labor and capital. This state of things is widespread, and will show its appalling extent in its effect upon the total amount of cotton produced this year."

WALKING FISHES.—Dr. Shortt is expected shortly to arrive in England from India, bringing with him about a dozen and a half of the walking fishes of India, Murrul, and Korava, many of them intended as a present to the Zoological Society's Gardens, from Dr. Day. The largest species, known as Ophiocephalus striatus, grows to upward of three feet in length, and if they succeed in England, will make a capital addition to our lakes and canals. The smaller variety, Ophiocephalus gachua, will perhaps be more interesting than useful, as they only grow to about one foot in length. Pains have been taken to accustom them by degrees to confinement before shipping them in tin boxes. Dr. Day is said to have come to the conclusion that they breathe air direct from the atmosphere, as well as air in solution in the water in which they live.

HERE is the latest trick. A respectable looking colored man calls and says there is a small cask of wine at the express office for the master of the house, a present from some one in New York. It leaks and they want some demijohns to pour it off. If these are furnished, "there's an end." This was tried at several houses at the west end last week. Here is another not so recent. A new silk dress is sent home from the shop, all made up in the best style. Soon afterwards a servant calls and says that her mistress—a neighbor and a friend—desires to look at the dress. The lady, wondering and half indignant, delivers it. After two days, on inquiry, the discovery is made that the whole thing is a fraud, and the new dress is gone no one knows where.—Boston paper.

The Renegade Senators.

A Washington special says: Senator Grimes packed up all his papers, &c., today, and left for his home in Burlington, Iowa, where he will resign his seat, if his health does not immediately improve, which it is not likely to do.

Senator Henderson has gone home to visit his people, and try to stem the torrents of resentment and denunciation from his old party friends. It is not unlikely that he will accede to their demands and resign his seat.

None of Mr. Ross or Fowler's old friends believe that they will ever return to their States.

Senator Trumbull tries to weather it out, but has a very unpleasant time. Every mail brings him dozens of letters, urging his immediate resignation, but he defies all.

Fessenden says he has no longer any position or influence here, and is tired of public life. He has no present intention of resigning, but will think differently when he has met the men of Maine.

Perils of Mountain Railroad Traveling.

The Movimento of Genoa records the narrow escape from destruction of a train of forty wagons from Upper Italy on the railway between Bologna and Florence. The train was descending the Apennines at so great speed that its weight overpowered the break power attached to it. The engineer and conductor made what signals of distress they could, and a pointsman at one of the stations, guessing what had occurred, had the presence of mind to turn the train off the main line up a steep gradient which led to a stone quarry high up on the mountain. The impetus acquired by the train was thus happily checked, and the lives of those in it saved.

Victimized.

Frank McElroy, dealer in brooms on Third street was victimized yesterday, to the amount of six hundred dollars. It appears that he was slightly under the influence of liquor, and falling in with a party of three men, was taken into the house of John Madera, on Third street. He had been there but a short time when he enquired for liquor, and there being none in the house, he requested some one to go for it. He had with him two bills a $500 and a $100. He gave the $100 to J. A. Gorman, one of the persons, who came in with him, to get changed and buy the liquor. Gorman took the bill and got it changed and alleges that he returned the change to McElroy, who, from his own statement of the affair, was so drunk that he don't know whether he got the change back or not. The liquor was procured, and after drinking it Madera was sent for more. At this point of the affair, McElroy must have become insensibly drunk, as he does not remember anything further until some two hours after, when he discovered that his money was all gone. He made the matter known at the Mayor's office, and Gorman was arrested, and the officers were in search of Madera and the other man, whose name we were unable to learn. Gorman states that he got the $100 changed and returned the change to McElroy, who gave him a five dollar bill, and that he purchased twenty-five cents worth of ale, which Madera and McElroy drank. He then left them and went down stairs, and a few minutes afterwards he observed Madera come down with some money in his hand.

Since the above was written we learn that Madera and his wife have been arrested, but no money was found. They were locked up for a hearing.

Explosion and Fire.

An explosion, followed by a slight fire, occurred at the oil refinery of Messrs. J. C. Kirkpatrick & Co., Ewalt street, Lawrenceville, Thursday night. The accident occurred about twelve o'clock, in the receiving house, which was a small brick building, containing a series of small pans into which the oil was conveyed from the stills. While in these pans it was inspected by the "stillman," and was subsequently conveyed, through pipes, to the receiving tank, some distance away. At the time mentioned, the "stillman" approached the receiving house with a small lighted lantern, for the purpose of looking at the oil, and when some ten feet distant the gas from the oil in the pans ignited from the lantern and a heavy explosion instantly occurred. The force of the explosion blew the building entirely to pieces, and wrenched all the pipes and fixtures into all sorts of shapes. The "stillman" notwithstanding he was so near the building escaped uninjured. The small quantity of oil in the receiving house of course ignited and was consumed, but there being but a few barrels of it the loss in that respect was but trifling. The flames communicated to the wooden condensing tank, through which the oil was conveyed from the stills to the receiving house, took fire and was considerably burned. The loss by the fire amounted to between two and three hundred dollars only.

The Athletic Base Ball Club.

The Athletic Base Ball Club of Philadelphia will arrive in this city Saturday on their Western tour, and will play their first series of games at Union Park, with the Olympic and Allegheny Clubs, on Monday and Tuesday, June 1st and 2d. The Olympic will play with them Monday at three o'clock, and the game with the Allegheny Club will take place on Tuesday at that hour. The Allegheny was one of the best clubs in the State at the close of last season, and it is said that they will put a much stronger "nine" in the "field," as well as at the "bat," this season. Seats have been arranged for the accommodation of ladies who desire to witness the game. The game will doubtless be one of unusual interest, as the Athletics is considered the crack club of the East, as the Allegheny is of the West.

Attempted Burglary.

Thursday night about twelve o'clock, the watchman at Lewis, Bailey, Dalzell & Co's. warehouse on Anderson street Allegheny, observed several boys loitering about the office of the Duquesne Coal Company, which is in the vicinity of the warehouse. He observed their movements for some time and thinking they wore out rather late, started toward them, intending to send them home. When he approached the young scamps fled, which aroused his suspicions to a still greater extent, and caused him to investigate the matter. Upon examining the office he found that they had cut the putty from one of the lights of glass in the window next to Canal street, but had not yet taken the light out. Their intention was evidently to enter the office, and abstract whatever of value they might find their.

A Memorable Day.

This day, aside from being devoted to the newly inaugurated and beautiful custom of strewing the graves of the fallen braves with Spring's finest offering of flowers, will likewise be marked by a private sale of boots, shoes and gaiters at the Masonic Hall Auction Rooms of Smithson, Vanhook & McClelland, Nos. 55 and 57 Fifth street. This stock is one of the largest and finest ever opened in this city, and embraces all the latest and most fashionable styles. The goods have been bought at great sacrifice, and will be sold without regard to original cost of manufacture. Those needing anything in the line will do well to attend the private sale to-day.

Personal.

Rev. R. R. Snyder, pastor of the North Avenue M. E. Church, Allegheny, whose illness was noticed a short time ago, has been compelled to discontinue his ministerial labors for a time, and is at present repairing his health in the West. During his absence Rev. Mr. Gray, of the East Baltimore M. E. Conference, has been supplying the vacancy in his pulpit, with great acceptability to the congregation. Mr. Gray's discourses are marked by fervid zeal, clear, deep thought, clothed in eloquent and forcible language, and delivered in an exceedingly happy and effective manner.

Receiving Stolen Goods.—William Mahler, committed some time since by Mayor Blackmore, charged with the larceny of a lot of silks and other goods, made information yesterday before Alderman Strain, charging L. Burkhart with receiving stolen goods. He alleges that the accused received a lot of silks, knowing at the time that they had been stolen. Burkhart was arrested and held for a hearing.

Changing Street Names.

We reported Wednesday that the Street Committee had had under consideration the matter of changing the names of certain streets on account of the fact that since consolidation, in a number of instances, there are two or more streets in the city of the same name. The Committee agreed upon certain changes which they will present to Councils for confirmation, it requiring the passage of an ordinance to make a lawful change of a street name. As it is likely changes will be made by Councils in the list of recommendations by the Committee, and confusion would occur, we, at their request, refrained from publishing the list, but, as contrary to this request, it was published yesterday by a contemporary, we here annex it:

Peach alley, Third ward, changed to Hickory.
Butler street, Ninth ward, changed to Railroad street.
Ewalt street, Pitt township, to Birch.
Chestnut, Lawrenceville, to Maple.
Fisk, Seventh ward, to Arch.
Irwin, Lawrenceville, to Buckeye.
Locust, Fifth ward, to Juniata.
Mulberry alley, Lawrenceville, to Blackberry alley.
Plum alley, Third ward, to Oak alley.
Pike, Lawrenceville, to Garrison.
Peach alley, Eighth ward, to Quince.
Reed, Lawrenceville, to Race.
Spruce alley, Lawrenceville, to Hemlock alley.
Union alley, Lawrenceville, to Ash alley.
Union alley, Sixth ward, to Crab alley.
Webster street, Pittsburgh, to Webster avenue.
Decatur street, First ward, to Hazel street.
Lower Washington street, Lawrenceville, to Hatfield street.
Upper Washington street, to Willow street.

The Mystery Solved.

MR. EDITOR:—My attention has just been called to the following article which appeared in last Saturday's GAZETTE: "Who can explain it? While workmen were engaged in digging an excavation for a new cellar at the corner of Prospect and Washington streets, a cut-stone foundation of fine workmanship was struck which puzzled the oldest natives to account for. This was sixty feet from the surface, the hill which stood there having been graded away. We incline to the belief that the foundation was laid in filling a ravine which must have existed there many years ago." Yesterday I visited the spot indicated, and found the pavement as described, but instead of an artificial structure, it was a fine example of a natural division of the rock, known to Geologists as the "jointed structure." These peculiar fractures are of much interest to scientific men, and have been studied with great care, because of their bearing upon the geological history of the country. In this particular case, the cracks are in a bed of limestone, ten inches thick, which rests upon and is covered by a very thick deposit of shale. The surface of the limestone, from which the shale has been removed, is level, and the cracks extending through the mass give it the appearance of a huge mosaic, composed of blocks, rhombic, rectangular, square, and irregular in form, which might easily be mistaken for a work of art. In its way it is the most perfect specimen I have seen, and is well worth an inspection.

B. C. J.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

In the bankruptcy branch a final discharge was granted and certificate awarded to Michael Aronson, of Pittsburgh.

The following petitions for adjudication in bankruptcy were filed: George E. McCormick and James Todd, Fayette county: P. Heslett, Allegheny; Joel C. Straum, Fayette county; D. W. Button, John H. Galey, Edger E. Steele, John O. Beardsley, Joshua Noyes, of Venango county; W. H. Thomas, James McBarbers, H. P. Yeomans, of Tioga county; A. F. Cowles, Lycoming county; John Halstead, Jacob A. Thomas and Isaac McLacey, of Wyoming county; Pierce, Rendall & Co., Luzerne county; Samuel B. High, J. Snyder, Jr., Thad. G. Vogle, of Northumberland county; Jacob Kunz, Erie; C. E. Beaman, Elk county; Joseph Fricker, and James Digby, Pittsburgh.

Alleged Larceny.

F. D. Tinkle, a stranger in the city, made information before Alderman M'Master yesterday, charging Stephen Carey with larceny. Mr. Tinkle is travelling and yesterday arrived in the city and stopped at the Rush House, where Carey is porter. He gave his baggage to the accused to carry to his room and some time afterwards on opening his valise discovered that his revolver valued, at $50, had been taken out. The only ground of suspicion against Carey was that he had taken the baggage to the room. It is due to him to say that he has always born a good character for honesty, that he has been porter at the Rush House for several years, and the proprietors of the establishment have the utmost confidence in his honesty. He was arrested and held for a hearing

Historical Photograph.

We notice that the beautiful photograph, by G. Gutekunst, Esq., Arch street, Philadelphia, of the National Union Convention held in that city in November last, is exhibited in the vestibule of the First Reformed Presbyterian Church in this city, where the General Synod is now holding its sessions. This historical photograph will no doubt have an extensive sale. Presbyterians, generally, will desire to possess a copy of a picture which will be a memento of one of the most important ecclesiastical Conventions ever held in this country. Mr. Gutekunst is one of our most distinguished artists, and the picture fully sustains his reputation. Subscriptions taken by the Janitor of the church. Price with frame, $5.00; without frame, $1,50.

A Portable Chapel.

The Young Men's Christian Association have purchased a new and commodious tent, capable of accommodating about five hundred persons, in which they design holding religious services during the summer months, moving it about from place to place as the locality on occasion may require. It is intended that these services shall take the place of those held during last winter in the Theatre and Academy of Music. The dedication services will probably take place Sabbath, June 7th, due notice of which, however, will be given.

Appointments for Preaching.

The Rev. Nevin Woodside, of Brooklyn, New York, will preach in the First Reformed Presbyterian Church (Dr. Douglas') of this city, to-morrow morning at half past ten o'clock, and in the afternoon at half past two o'clock. Rev. Dr. McMaster will preach in Dr. John Pressly's church, Allegheny, at ten and a half o'clock in the morning and in Rev. John McMillan's church at two and a half o'clock in the afternoon.

Delegate Returns.—At a meeting of the Second Ward Grant Club, last evening, on motion of Captain Cook, it was "Resolved, that we request all parties willing to report the result of the election of delegates in their respective wards, boroughs and towns, to make known the same at the rooms of this club, No. 66 Smithfield street, near Fourth. The rooms will be open until eleven o'clock at night."

Continuation of Gardner & Stewart's Dress Goods Sale, on West Corner Market and Fourth Streets, No. 69.

We take pleasure in announcing to our readers that Messrs. Gardner & Stewart will offer on Monday next an extraordinary large and choice selection of new dress goods, excelling in variety, style, and cheapness all their previous efforts. Their sale during the present week has been a marked success, and hundreds of customers visited their store, and availed themselves of the opportunity in securing spring dress goods from their well selected stock, at prices much lower than they have been sold in this market for a period of some years. But of the coming week we wish to speak, and the variety of new goods to be shown is of valued importance to the ladies, and the prices are to be below those of any previous date, and that bargains are to be offered in new, desirable and choice goods, no one will deny after paying them a visit. Their stocks comprises Poplins, Poplinets, Poplin Twists, Silk Mixtures, Mohair Mixtures, (Plain, Stripe and Plaid Mohair,) White Mohairs, (Black and Colored,) Alpacas and Poplins, good grain Silks, Lawns, Pencals, Cambrics, Swisses, Marseilles, Shawls, Lace Points, Sun Umbrellas, Hoop Skirts, Napkins, Doyles, Linens, Sheetings and domestic goods, including some of the most extraordinary bargains ever seen in the city in first class goods, all having been recently purchased in New York under the depressed condition of the dry goods market, at prices most fabulously low, and will be sold at a small advance, as special bargains, during the next ten days, by Messrs. Gardner & Stewart, on the west corner Market and Fourth streets, No. 69 where you can make purchases and save money, and patronize a firm most deserving of success.

The Wheeler & Wilson Machine the Cheapest and Most Perfect in the World.

We should have a reason for everything. Why, then, is Wheeler & Wilson's the most perfect and cheapest machine in the world?

Because it has been pronounced to possess in the highest degree the following excellencies over all other machines, viz: it is simple in construction; it does not get out of order; it is perfectly made; it runs easily and quick; it works fast or slow at the option of the operator; it requires but a few minutes to learn how to run it; it never fails to sew perfectly, even at the highest possible rate of speed; it accomplishes every kind of Sewing and does it in a neat, reliable and workman-like manner; its seams never rip; its seams are strong and elastic, and beautiful, and even; the tension is simple; the work can be changed in a moment from one kind to another; it shows the greatest product of work in a given time; it hems, fels, braids, embroiders, and sews in every other way, and in view of these and a hundred other points which we could enumerate, the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines are not only pronounced the most perfect, but also the cheapest sewing machines in the world. Ladies call at the General Western Agency, No. 27 Fifth srert, Wm. Sumner & Co., Agents, and see the foregoing facts, together with many others demonstrated before your eyes. Do this before purchasing elsewhere. Do not be deceived by representations, but go to Sumner & Co.'s and see the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine accomplish what it is claimed it will do.

The Delicacies of the Season.

The high reputation enjoyed by P. H. Maguire, No. 105 Fifth street, as a caterer to the hungry, is amply sustained daily by the first-class, hotel-like bill of fare afforded his patrons. He serves up meals in the highest style of art, and the neatest manner, and at prices which cannot fail to prove satisfactory. The ice cream saloon attached to the restaurant is one of the most superb in the city, and is destined to prove the popular and fashionable place of resort for ladies and gentlemen. No liquor of any description is sold on the premises, so that ladies can go unaccompanied in daylight or night without fear of being subjected to the slightest annoyance. As a restaurant, confectionery or ice cream saloon, we commend this first class establishment to the patronage of our friends.

A "Whalen" Case.

Bridget Lalley, but recently from the Emerald Isle, resides of Presser's court, Eighth ward, where, it appears, the Whalen family also reside. A slight difficulty occurred between Bridget and the Whalens, in consequence of which, Bridget alleges, Mary, Christian and Elizabeth Whalen, made an attack upon her and gave her a "whaling." She made information before the Mayor, charging them with assault and battery, and a warrant was issued for their arrest.

Improvements.—We learn that Mr. Eisner, of Eisner, Phillips & Co., contemplates the erection of a large four story building at the corner of Fifth and Wood streets. The front will be of iron and pressed brick. The building will have a front of about 60 feet on each of said streets. The work of removing the old structure which now occupies the ground will be commenced the first of next week.

Legal Blanks and legal paper of very superior character and quality supplied at the most reasonable prices at the well known and popular periodical book and stationery depot of Col. J. D. Egan, Sixth street, near Smithfield. A very rare and elegant assortment of new and second hand books are offered at the lowest prices. For any and everything in this line favor Col. Egan with a call.

Larceny by Bailee.—Jane Droyer made information before Alderman Taylor yesterday, charging Richard Welsh with larceny by bailee. She alleges that she left a basket containing a silk hood, and other articles of wearing apparel in charge of the accused, which he appropriated to his own use. He was arrested and held for a hearing.

A Female Bruiser.—Mary Schultz made information before Alderman Thomas, charging Mrs. Lally with assault and battery. She alleges that Mrs. Lally struck her on the head with a piece of crockery ware, and that she battered and bruised her face in a shameful manner. The parties reside on Pride street, in the Eighth ward. A warrant was issued.

Bawdy House.—Henry Mellon yesterday made information before Alderman Butler against Mollie Brooks, Emma Coil, Fannie Wiggins and Jennie Marshall, charging them with keeping a bawdy house on Townsend street, Sixth ward. They were arrested and held for a hearing Monday at three o'clock p. m.

Malicious Mischief.—Alice Campbell made information before Alderman Miller, yesterday, charging John Wainwright with malicious mischief. She alleged that he poisoned her chickens. The parties reside in the Ninth ward. He was arrested and committed to jail in default of bail for his appearance at Court.

Held for Court.—John Kissick and Peter Gillen, charged on oath of Wm. Barry with aggravated assault and battery, had a hearing before Alderman M'Masters, yesterday, and were held to bail in the sum of one thousand dollars each for their appearance at Court.

Died of Her Injuries.—Mrs. McKnight, the lady who was severely burned on Ohio street, Allegheny, some two weeks since, an account of which we published in the GAZETTE, died of her injuries yesterday morning.

The Diamond Front.

The "Diamond Front Grocery" and produce establishment, No. 164 Federal street, Allegheny, is destined to be the leading establishment of its character in our sister city, not on account of its fine appearance, which is nevertheless very attractive, nor in consequence of its being favorably convenient and centrally locality, but because purchasers can be accommodated there in groceries and produce upon the most reasonable terms, and are always sure of getting the very best quality of any article they purchase. There is another cause to which, perhaps, the popularity and rapidly increasing trade of this establishment may be attributed which is its pleasant and agreeable proprietors, Messrs. McBride & George. These gentlemen are both practical business men, and understand fully the wants of the public so far as their business is concerned, and we most cordially reccommend them to the public.

Plumbing and Gas Fitting.

At this season of the year, when all are engaged in repairing, it is sometimes difficult to obtain competent and experienced workmen. This is the case particularly as to plumbing and gas fitting, and it is doubtless a great annoyance to those wanting work done promptly and in good style. To all desiring work in that line, and at short notice and reasonable prices, we would say call at No. 165 Wood street, at the establishment of T. T. Ewens, plumber and gas fitter. Mr. Ewens employs none but the most experienced workmen, and uses the best material, consequently his work is always satisfactory. His charges are reasonable, and he is a pleasant and agreeable man to deal with. Remember the place is T. T. Ewens, 165 Wood street.

School Hours.

The Public School, of Philadelphia, after Monday next and until the first of September, will only be open one session each day. There is no question about the good sense and feasibility of such a one term system. From two to four o'clock in the afternoon is the hottest portion, generally, of summer days. Confined in close and ill ventilated rooms, scholars and teachers are never worked to advantage at such times. During the same number of hours in the morning double the amount of study can be accomplished. Hence, the good sense of the change on the part of the Controllers of Public Schools in Philadelphia.

Most of our private schools in Pittsburgh, we believe, have adopted the single session system, and we believe that as much is done as there used to be in the two sessions, more, perhaps, because there is now no long break in the day to divert the minds of teachers and scholars. We think that probably our Board of Control might do worse than initiate this action of their Philadelphia brethren.

KEYSER, 120 Penn street, Pittsburgh. After having tried various medicines from doctors, without any benefit, I have been under Dr. Keyser's treatment now for nearly two months, and am entirely restored to my hearing, so that I can hear a pin drop. JOHN SCANLAN,
